DESIGNER NOTES

We created this 100 % recycled plastic bollard as an functional as well attractive alternative to the traditional wood bollard. The inspiration came from a recent trip to Holland where a similar product is used virtually everywhere along bike pathways, pedestrian walkways and along roadsides. These are ideal in these applications. They will never rot out. Wood alternatives will start to decay just being in the ground and lots prematurely start to decay because of weed eaters clearing the vegetation around the base. They save money. Over the lifespan of the product hundreds of dollars are saved as they do not require either staining or painting on a regular basis. Best of all they are extremely environmentally friendly. Each posts diverts over 52 lbs of plastics from landfills and oceans and is recyclable. There are lots of great applications for this product as mentioned! Most effective that we discovered recently is as wayfinder signage on hiking and biking trails where KM markers or arrows can provide direction at intersections. The bollard can be mounted in either a concrete footing or directly in the ground with or without rebar through the base as a leveller or stabilizer.
